What is This?

Looking at Life
in the Womb

LIFE IN THE WOMB

The LCMS Life Ministry has a FREE ultrasound-based resource that shows students “Life in the Womb.” This is for middle-and high-school classrooms and is also ideal for congregational settings such as confirmation and teen groups. Learners will understand that pregnancy, even in its earliest stages, always involves a new human being – a life worth protecting and defending.

The project is comprised of six modules and a video, and classroom activities can cross over into several disciplines, including science, math, language arts and religion. The curriculum meets state and national teaching standards, so it's easy for teachers to use in the classroom. And if you teach in a setting that doesn't allow overtly religious discussions, you can still use this curriculum. Only part 5 discusses life from a theological standpoint. The rest of the curriculum deals only with the science of life. Go to blogs.lcms.org/2015/ultrasound-resource to see an explanation and look for the yellow “order via email” button. For more information or to order, you can also e-mail Tracy Quaethem at LCMS Life and Health Ministries: tracy.quaethem@lcms.org.

Message from Rev. Michael Brown

A Holistic Approach To Life — Part 1

Jesus: Holistically Pro-Life

It was the late 1970s. This sort of thing wasn't all that common - a woman, in her 40s, pregnant. She did a lot of crying. Granted, she might have been "expecting," but she and her husband weren't expecting this! Not at her age. It was unplanned. It was unconventional. It was life changing.

Moreover, there was real cause to have concern – health concerns. With her first child there had been birth complications - terrible ones. So the doctors warned her of the increase risk of "birth defects" that came with an aging mother, though there were no signs of any as of yet. Her Lutheran pastor was also aware of the potential health risks as well. So he went out of his way to reassure her that if she wanted to terminate her pregnancy because of these potential "defects," her Lutheran church would stand with her in her decision. So would God.

Thankfully, I'm glad my mother didn't listen to her pastor. I happen to enjoy my life.

Yet I hope each of us do just that this Advent and Christmas season - listen to our pastors. Listen to them tell the story of something that wasn't all that common 2000 years ago: a woman, probably in her teens, pregnant...but with no husband to speak of. Perhaps she did a lot of crying too. She might have been "expecting," but she and Joseph weren't expecting this! Talk about unplanned! Talk about unconventional! Talk about life changing!

Though, isn't this exactly what we're expecting this Advent and Christmas - a baby who is going to change our lives too. And that's Good News! At least that's what the angel called it when speaking to some shepherds near Bethlehem. It's Gospel—Good News that gets spoken in our ears each week too. Forgiveness, life, and salvation that is placed in our lowly manger, our lips, this season. His life, His death, and His resurrection that we have been baptized into, completely changing life as we know it. Yours and mine. Body and soul. A life we enjoy now, but a fulfillment that is not yet. New life that is nothing less than the holistic redemption of all creation.

It turns out, Jesus is holistically pro-life. And so is His Church!

Our Philosophy

Lutherans For Life believes that the Church is compelled by God's Word to speak and act on behalf of those who are vulnerable and defenseless. The crisis of our times is the repudiation of Biblical truth manifested in the wanton destruction of innocent human life through legalized abortion-on-demand and the growing threat to the lives of others through legalized assisted suicide and euthanasia. Therefore, as Lutherans For Life, we will strive to give witness, from a Biblical perspective, to the Church and society on these and other related issues such as chastity, post abortion healing, and family living.

Christ's Church: Holistically Pro-Life

It was the 2nd & 3rd centuries. This sort of thing was thankfully all too common - the body of Christ gathered around the Apostles' teachings, baptism, and the breaking of bread. It was only in the life found there, in Jesus Christ, that God's people were strengthened and nourished to be able to live in a culture of constant death and persecution.

In their daily lives, this looked like Christians opposing infanticide and abortion, even rescuing children thrown away in the dump or left to die of exposure. It looked like Christians who would stay in their plague-riddled villages and cities to tend the ill and dying while everyone else would flee, often succumbing to the illnesses themselves. And it looked like Christians who would take the bodies of crucified criminals, even pagans, and prepare and bury them instead of letting them be discarded in ditches like road kill. Conception to resurrection, body and soul, the church has always been holistically pro-life.

Now it is the 21st century. This sort of thing thankfully remains all too common - the body of Christ still gathering around the Apostles' teachings, baptism, and the breaking of bread. It is only in the life found there, in Jesus Christ, that we too are strengthened and nourished to be able to live in a culture of increasing death and persecution.

In our daily lives (here in this place at least), this looks like Christians opposing abortion, promoting adoption and foster care, and taking care of mothers faced with hard circumstances. It looks like Christians who have started hospitals for the ill, homes and terrific programs for the developmentally delayed, and outreach and care for those who are blind and deaf - always valuing the life of those whom society values less. And it looks like Christians who take care of the dying, operate assisted living and skilled-care facilities, and value and fight for quantity of life just as much as quality of life. Conception to resurrection, body and soul, the church continues to be holistically pro-life.

But is your congregation?
